How to delete internet browsing history

Internet history – that is, the recording of the websites that have been viewed on your computer – takes up space on your hard drive. It can also have security implications as it allows anyone to see just what you’ve been looking at.

If you have no specific reason to hold on to the internet history on your computer, it’s advisable to set it to keep track of sites for only a day or a week rather than for months. And if you find that you want to keep what you’ve been looking at to yourself, you may want to get rid of the history altogether.

Follow these step-by-step instructions to delete internet history using Microsoft Edge.

Step 1: Open the browser and click on the three dots and then History.
Step 2: Clicking on this will open up your browsing history, with the most recent pages you have visited first. You can scroll down the list.

Step 3: If you want to delete a specific website from the history, hover your mouse over it and a cross will appear on the right-hand side. Left click with your mouse to delete.
Step 4: To delete all your browsing history. Click on the three dots in the top right-hand corner of the History screen and select Clear browsing data.

Step 5: You will now need to choose what time period of browsing history you want to delete, and if you also want to delete things like cookies and images. Select the relevant options and then left click on Clear now.

Note: Deleting your browsing history does not delete your list of Favourites.

Last updated 1st September 2021

Next steps

How to view internet history

How to add to Favourites

How to delete Favourites
Remote Digital Championing!
Guides covering some tips and techniques for providing remote support to learners, an increasingly important service in times of social isolation.

Find out more

Free how-to guides for your website
Why not add our award-winning and extensive range of digital skills guides to your website?

Find out more

Start a Digital Champion movement!
Could your workplace do with developing its digital skills? With funded membership opportunities currently available, now is the perfect time for organisations to join our Digital Champions Network.

Find out more

Subscribe to our newsletter
Join our mailing list to receive the latest news, offers and expert insights from our team.

First name

Last name