Using Zoom to provide digital skills support

When it comes to helping people with digital skills, Zoom is a vital tool for providing essential remote support. But how do you get started when the people you're trying to help have little or no technical knowledge? And can Zoom actually be used to run Digital Champion sessions that are safe and secure for everyone?

Our webinar on Thursday 11 February 2021 explored these questions and more, sharing practical examples, important considerations and top tips. It also came complete with free resources to help make Zoom a valuable part of any digital inclusion approach.
